Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Assault by prisoners

Current law prohibits prisoners of a state prison or other state, county or municipal detention facility from assaulting another prisoner or an officer, employe or visitor of the prison or facility. A prisoner commits an assault in violation of this prohibition if he or she does any of the following: 1) places the officer, employe, visitor or prisoner in apprehension of an immediate battery that is likely to cause death or great bodily harm; or 2) confines or restrains the officer, employe, visitor or prisoner without the person's consent. A prisoner convicted of violating this prohibition may be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than ten years or both, if the offense occurs before December 31, 1999, or may be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than 15 years or both, if the offense occurs on or after December 31, 1999.

Current law also prohibits a prisoner confined to a state prison or other state, county or municipal detention facility from intentionally causing bodily harm to another prisoner or to an officer, employe or visitor of the prison or facility without the consent of the person harmed. A prisoner convicted of violating this prohibition may be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than five years or both, if the offense occurs before December 31, 1999, or may be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than ten years or both, if the offense occurs on or after December 31, 1999.

This bill creates a new prohibition relating to assaults by a prisoner against another prisoner or an officer, employe or visitor of the prison or facility. Under the bill, a prisoner is prohibited from throwing or expelling blood, semen, urine or feces at or toward an officer, employe, visitor or another prisoner without the person's consent if the prisoner throws or expels the blood, semen, urine or feces with the intent that it come into contact with the officer, employe, visitor or other prisoner and with the intent either to cause bodily harm to the officer, employe, visitor or other prisoner or to abuse, harass, offend, intimidate or frighten the officer, employe, visitor or other prisoner.

A prisoner who violates the prohibition created in the bill may be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than two years or both, if the offense occurs before December 31, 1999, or may be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than five years or both, if the offense occurs on or after December 31, 1999. If a judge imposes a sentence of imprisonment on a prisoner convicted of violating the prohibition created in the bill, the judge must provide that the sentence be served consecutively to any sentence previously imposed or which may be imposed for any crime or offense for which the person was in custody when he or she committed the violation.

Testing for the presence of communicable diseases

Under current law, a person may be required to undergo testing to detect the presence of human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) and sexually transmitted diseases if the person is: 1) an adult charged with or convicted of certain sex offenses; or 2) a child alleged to be delinquent or in need of protection or services because he or she is alleged to have committed certain sex offenses. The sex offenses covered by this requirement are sexual assault of an adult, sexual assault of a child, repeated acts of sexual assault of the same child, sexual exploitation of a child or incest with a child.

Before a person may be required to undergo testing to detect the presence of HIV or a sexually transmitted disease, the prosecutor must apply for an order to have the person tested. A prosecutor must apply for an order if: 1) the victim or, if the victim is a minor, the victim's parent or guardian requests the prosecutor to apply to a court for an order requiring the testing; and 2) the prosecutor has probable cause to believe that the person has significantly exposed the victim to the transmission of HIV or a sexually transmitted disease, except that such probable cause is not required if the person has been convicted or adjudicated delinquent or found in need of protection or services. The court must then hold a hearing to determine whether there is probable cause to believe that the person has significantly exposed the victim to the transmission of HIV or a sexually transmitted disease. The results of any required tests must be disclosed to the following: 1) the person tested; 2) the parent, guardian or legal custodian of the person tested, if the person tested is a minor; 3) the victim or, if the victim is a minor, to the victim's parent or guardian; 4) the health care professional who provides care to the victim, if requested by the victim or the victim's parent or guardian; and 5) the health care provider of the person tested, if the person tested is a minor and disclosure is requested by the minor's parent or guardian.

This bill allows a court to order a person to undergo tests for the presence of communicable diseases if the person is a prisoner who has been charged with, convicted of or found not guilty by reason of mental disease or defect of assaulting another prisoner or an officer, employe or visitor of the prison or facility by throwing or expelling blood, semen, urine or feces at or toward the other prisoner or the officer, employe or visitor. Under the bill, a prosecutor must apply for an order requiring testing of a prisoner charged with this type of assault if: 1) the prosecutor is requested to do so by the victim or, if the victim is a minor, by the victim's parent or guardian; and 2) the prosecutor has probable cause to believe that the assault involved the prisoner's blood, semen, urine or feces and that the assault carried a potential for transmitting a communicable disease to the victim. The court must then hold a hearing to determine whether there is probable cause to believe that the assault involved the prisoner's blood, semen, urine or feces and that the assault carried a potential for transmitting a communicable disease to the victim. If the court finds probable cause, it must then order the prisoner to submit to a test or series of tests to detect the presence of any communicable disease that was potentially transmitted by the assault.

The results of any required tests for communicable diseases must be disclosed to the following: 1) the prisoner who is tested; 2) the parent, guardian or legal custodian of the prisoner, if the prisoner is a minor; 3) the victim or, if the victim is a minor, to the victim's parent or guardian; 4) the health care professional who provides care to the victim, if requested by the victim or the victim's parent or guardian; and 4) the health care provider of the prisoner who is tested, if the prisoner tested is a minor and disclosure is requested by the prisoner's parent or guardian. The communicable diseases for which tests may be ordered under the bill include HIV, sexually transmitted diseases, hepatitis B and hepatitis C.
